

“I am Passionate about Agriculture” Scholarship

Jaden Nell

Saskatchewan is host to a large agricultural community, and it is the staple industry of much of our province. Being raised on a family farm near Francis, I have been involved in agriculture all of my life. In my mind farming is much more than merely a business; it is a lifestyle. If one cares to observe the agricultural producers of our province, it is easy to see how passionate they are. I for one am proud to contribute to our province's most prided industry and I find myself enjoying all aspects of farming, through all the ups and downs that accompany the business.

I have always found the agriculture industry to be interesting. Since childhood I have been interested in many aspects of farming, and have branched out over the years to expand my repertoire of agriculture. Today, I participate heavily in the day to day activities of our family farm and in addition, I operate a cow-calf venture of my own. I have always loved farming, and I find it very easy to take pride in the work I do. To me, farming is an exciting ordeal, and there is so much to learn. Farming is a career that changes from day to day. For me, that is what keeps it interesting and worthwhile. Participating in the effort to grow for the world is a humbling experience, and I am very much looking forward to being part of this effort in the future to come.

One aspect of agriculture that makes it unique to any other business is the endless opportunities. It is such a broad industry, with so many strands to choose from. Farming in itself is a task that changes from one day to the next, which is an appealing quality in my mind. Agriculture has come a long way over the decades, and we have much to be proud of. I envision the future of agriculture as a lively industry that will be sustainable for the future. I believe all sectors of agriculture will continue to advance beyond our current imaginations. One important issue that I see is sustainability. I believe that agriculture will continue to become a more sustainable industry in the years to come, which will provide a stable base for our future generations. I look forward to being a part of the future of agriculture in this province.

The future cannot come soon enough for me. I look forward to starting my own career in agriculture and pursuing my passion to the next level. Agriculture is an exciting industry, and we have a lot of reason to be proud of what Saskatchewan agriculture has accomplished.
